A message from Rev Mark Skelton

A thing I have noticed about myself over the last few years is how my year is punctuated with returning moments. There are the obvious liturgical ones and of course we are just entering into the greatest of the Church's seasons, Lent and Easter which offer all sorts of opportunities and spaces for growth and change. There are very personal ones such as family and friends' birthdays and, in my case, each of my pets' birthdays and these serve to show the passing of time but also give the opportunity to remember and give thanks for those people....or pets.... but it is the natural moments which punctuate the year which I find provide the most helpful of these markers.

That first moment when I notice the two Magnolia at the bottom of Mill Lane setting their buds; the snowdrops rejoicing all the way along the Holcombe Down Road; the first leaves and then spears of bluebell poking above the leaf mould in woods and spinneys; the first Greenfinch wheezing its asthmatic call in my garden, the first chiffchaff and then, later in the year, the first screams of the swifts above the Church.

These moments are significant for me, I don't absolutely know why but they have set themselves in my life as milestones of joy. They appear each year and are greeted as returning friends. Although they are quite blissfully unaware as to how important they are in my life they do still impart great joy. This reminds me that simple pleasures can have a mighty effect. They remind me, as I need reminding regularly, not to take things so much for granted. Others, you included, will have your own regular markers that punctuate your year and show the passing of time, or pulse quietly in the background of your life like nature's heartbeat, well think about those things, list them, embrace them.

We can focus on the big, on the great, on the important but, if I am honest, the things that bring me the most joy are not the magnificent or spectacular, they are those quiet, unassuming and unobtrusive realities which just are and if I let them go by I have missed out on something wonderful.

Set yourself the challenge of noticing the world around you. Notice the things that bring you joy and thank God for them and then, even more importantly, notice the people around you who contribute to the beauty and loveliness of your life, the people around you who are always there and without whom your world, your life would be so much the poorer. Thank God for them but most importantly, make sure you tell them.

God bless you

Rev Mark Skelton

Spring

Dazzling bright the dawn re-newed - beckoning,
The sun re-awakened hope and life still bloom,
With joy uplifted, spring song - caroling,
Begone those days of waiting and of gloom,
Robin on low wall, proud and puffed - strutting,
Tight birch buds thrust in warmth, to open soon,
Highland - dancing lambs frisk and leap - gamboling,
Emerging year reborn from nature's womb.

Sweep out hidden corners with spring cleaning,
Prepare for what this glorious dawn will bring,
Resolutions made again, for breaking,
Hope may yet be blighted by sly winter's sting

COMMUNITY POP UP CAFÉ

Friday March 29th
Ideford Village Hall
11am - 1pm

Everyone is welcome to come along to our dog friendly, Community Pop up Café for tea/coffee and cake and/or a light lunch.

(Voluntary donation only)

A big 'thank you' to the ladies who have volunteered to help at the café on an occasional basis. It would be really helpful if we could have a few more names to call upon in case either Vanessa or Janet are unwell or on holiday etc. If you haven't been to the café yet, it is a very casual, relaxed, friendly atmosphere, and helpers have plenty of time to sit and chat with friends and neighbours.

If you would be able/willing to help with any of the following occasionally, please contact us.

1. Setting up the tables before the café opens at 11am and putting them away again at 1pm.
2. Helping with serving and washing up - 11am until 1pm.
3. Baking a cake.
4. Making something for a light lunch - soup or quiche etc.

Janet - j23aylmore@gmail.com Tel: 852259

Mothering Sunday - March 10th

There will be an informal, community led Mothering Sunday service at St. Mary's, Ideford at 10.30am. The service will last for no more than half an hour, and coffee and biscuits will be available after the service for those not rushing off for celebratory lunches.

We will be distributing small posies of flowers to all the ladies in Church, but if you know of someone who won't be in Church but would appreciate a small gift of flowers, please let me know. I will be making the posies on the Saturday afternoon, and any donations of flowers - primroses, daffodils, grape hyacinths etc for the posies would be most welcome - thank you.

112.7 Wildlife Wardens update and report:
The Wildlife Wardens have been invited to Hennock PC to look at what they are doing with their climate and environment projects.
At the church, the 200 saplings have been planted with more saplings coming to complete the final hedgerow and the Wildlife Wardens will be attending the next PCC meeting to discuss their steps for going for green.
The Wildlife Wardens and Sustainable Ideford are a collective community of volunteers who help each other.

113/23

PLANNING:

113.1 The following planning application was discussed:

23/01952/FUL – Colleybrook Farm, Fore Street

Conversion of existing barn to holiday accommodation, conversion of existing barn into a bat barn, conversion of barn into a dwelling and conversion of a barn into a gym.

The PC objects to this application in its current form.

We fully support the TDC Biodiversity Officer's report of 12th December 2023 who in conclusion recommends that planning permission is not granted.

We also fully support our own Wildlife Warden's assessment, who like the Biodiversity Officer, has concluded that the proposed development, in its current form, poses a serious risk of disturbance to some rare bat species.
The council has also noted that there is no provision to provide further parking or better access e.g., for the holiday accommodation unit.

The council acknowledges the sense in putting redundant buildings to good use but done in the right way for the right reasons and to create the right balance.

113.2 To note the following planning applications have been withdrawn:

21/02908/FUL – The Sanctuary, Higher Colleybrook Farm

Retention of use of annexe as tourist accommodation

Application withdrawn.

21/02920/HOU – The Sanctuary, Higher Colleybrook Farm

Siting of a car port

Application withdrawn.

21/02926/FUL – The Sanctuary, Higher Colleybrook Farm

Retention of various outbuildings (part retrospective) on land at The Sanctuary

Application withdrawn.

22/01891/CLDP – Higher Colleybrook Farm

Certificate of lawfulness for proposed siting of a caravan for ancillary residential use within the curtilage of the dwelling at Higher Colleybrook Farm.

Application withdrawn.

22/01891/CLDP – Higher Colleybrook Farm

Certificate of lawfulness for proposed siting of caravan to provide agricultural welfare facilities and agricultural storage in association with the agricultural operations at Higher Colleybrook Farm

Application withdrawn.

113.3 There were no planning enforcement issues or updates.

50 mile cycle, cuppa and cake for the Samaritans.

After such a successful fun day last year, on Saturday 6th April we will be cycling again in memory of Danielle and those who have lost a loved one or have struggles with their mental health. Help us to raise much needed funds for our local Samaritans.

There will be three routes this year. The 50 and 20 mile route will leave The Haven, Ideford at 9am with also a 12 mile route starting at B&Q Newton Abbot at 10am. Contact Steve for more information on 07970 984729

If cycling isn't your thing then please support this event and join us at Ideford Village Hall for a cuppa and cake between 12-4. Most of the cyclists will arrive at around 2pm.

If you would like to help or donate a cake please contact Debbie on 07815 482652

We hope you can join in and make it another memorable day.

Thank you

Steve, Debbie and Tayde.

Please pick up after your dog

Calling all dog owners, please help to keep our village looking clean and tidy by remembering to take poo bags when you walk your dog, and please pick up after your dog - then dispose of the bag in a bin, and not in a nearby tree! I'm sure most dog owners are responsible and follow the rules, but unfortunately the minority spoil the countryside for everyone else. Rant over!!

My beautiful Peacocks

The 5th July 2022 was an exciting day up at the Sanctuary, five little two-month-old peachicks arrived. After 6 months their feather growth enabled them to be sexed and that's when I realised that there were 2 peacocks and 3 peahens now called Peter, Paul, Poppy, Penelope and Pamela.

A large peafowl aviary was built to house the birds whilst I raised and nurtured them, which has been a pleasure and enjoyment watching them grow. In the spring of 2023 after the awful bird flu epidemic, I started to let the birds out either in pairs or threes and they would quite contently stay around the area of the aviary where the other peafowls were. In October 2023, I decided to let them all out together to see how they would behave. They very quickly went to my neighbours but gradually with feeding and encouragement they are now staying around the farm with the free-range chickens.

Having explored a bit, they decided to roost on my roof terrace. Then they started to venture up the lane and roost in the surrounding trees. They are such magnificent beautiful birds. They are so graceful and quiet, but during the mating season, which is in the spring, they may start calling. This will last for about a month and then they will settle down again.

Should they visit your garden please do not feed them otherwise they may be tempted to stay. They are a delight to see and will make you smile. If you do not want them around, please shoo them back in my direction. If they won't go, a suggestion is to get a hose pipe or water pistol and spray it near them and they will scarp.

Although these are wandering birds, please be advised that these are my pets and no different than wandering cats. Hope you enjoy seeing them if they visit you.

SUSTAINABLE IDEFORD A - Z

M is for Meat

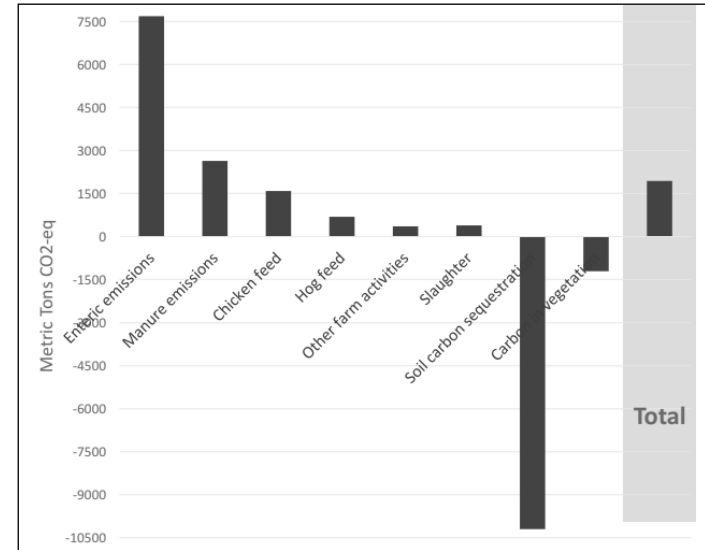

It seems like everyone, from the UN to the Committee on Climate Change, is urging us to eat less meat. We all know by now that cows burp out a lot of methane, a very potent greenhouse gas, and we've probably heard that growing soya or grain for animal feed often involves destruction of the Amazon rainforest.

However, before we all turn vegan, it's worth taking a closer look at the facts, not least because so many of our farmers rely on beef, lamb or dairy production to make a living. 75% of Devon farmland is used as pasture, as most is unsuitable for growing crops.

It turns out that the impact on global warming of producing meat depends hugely on the way the animals are raised. US-style feed lots, where the cows are penned in a small space and fed entirely on cattle-cake, involve large emissions of CO² and methane, with nothing to offset them. But when cows or sheep graze on grass, the gases they give off are offset by the gases absorbed as the grass grows back. It's a cycling process from the grass to the animal, into the air and back into the grass and soil.

Because of this, some studies have claimed that pasture-fed meat is carbon-neutral, or even negative (as grazing encourages the grass to form deeper roots, storing carbon in the soil). Research at ten National Trust farms in 2012 found that the carbon footprint of farms where the animals were entirely grass-fed (pasture, silage and hay) was similar to that of conventional farms, but 94% of the emissions at the former were absorbed back into the grass. In some upland areas, the offset was greater than 100%. A study on a US regenerative farm showed that most greenhouse gas emissions were absorbed back into the soil or vegetation:

Other studies, however, argued that even pasture-fed meat is environmentally damaging, or that on a global scale there is not enough land to meet the current level of meat demand using only pasture methods. If you want to dive into this debate, a good place to start is the Wicked Leeks article on the Riverford website, entitled "The truth about grass-fed".

What this shows is that simple messages are always misleading. Everyone has to make their own decisions. Some people are vegan because they don't like animals being raised for slaughter. For those of us who continue to eat meat, the best advice is to be careful about where it comes from. If you buy what's produced locally, it's likely that it will be partly or mainly grass-fed, or you can look for certification by the Pasture for Life Association. For example, West Town Farm in Ide is a certified producer and pasture-fed beef is advertised through the Linny in Coffinswell. You might also consider wild meat, given that we have an excess of deer which is damaging to our forests. Wild Hart Venison is one Dartmoor supplier – it is very reasonably-priced and delivers locally for free.

A final consideration is the health benefit of reducing consumption of red or processed meat. The NHS advises that if you average more than 90g per day (cooked weight), you should cut down below 70g. This is roughly one lamb chop or 1½ sausages. So dedicated meat-eaters might like to work in the odd meal of fish, or one of those spicy Vegan recipes!
